Letter No. 1471, dated the 13th November 1918, from the Superintendent, Hosur Remount Depot, South India, to the Hon'ble the Resident in Mysore, Bangalore.

---:O:---

I have the honour to draw your attention to the fact that the existing prohibition of export of food grains from Mysore State has seriously affected the working of the Depot, at which a large number of Army horses are now located.

The staple food of the subordinate staff is ragi, of which large quantities were formerly imported from the borders of Mysore State, situated at a distance of only 3 miles from this depot.

Ragi is now frequently unobtainable in the depot bazaar, and great hardship is thereby inflicted on Depot servants, who have, in some cases, as a consequence, been obliged to leave their work in order to proceed to outlying villages in search of food.

Smooth working and efficiency in the depot would be greatly increased if a permit for the export of the amount of ragi actually required to feed the subordinate staff of the Depot, could be obtained from the Mysore authorities.

The amount required would be eight cart loads weekly. The distribution would be effected under my orders, and steps would be taken to ensure that the grain would be available for Depot employees and their families only.

I would therefore request that, should you deem it advisable, you would kindly approach the Durbar with a view to the grant of the necessary export permit.
